Story Models (Q6)

10 model stories with morals in board style

STORY MODELS — English 11 (Q6)

10 model stories in board style. Each story has a clear beginning, middle, and end, with a moral.

Note: Board tip: Keep the story within 150–200 words. Give it a title. Write the moral at the end. Use past tense and simple sentences.

Story 1: A Friend in Need

Once upon a time, there were two friends, Ali and Bilal. They lived in the same village and studied in the same school. One day, Ali fell ill and could not attend school for a month.

Bilal visited Ali every day and helped him with his lessons. He brought him notes and explained the difficult topics. Ali recovered soon and passed his examination with good marks.

Ali thanked Bilal for his help. Bilal smiled and said, 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.'

Moral: A true friend helps in times of need.

Story 2: The Greedy Merchant

There was a rich merchant who was very greedy. He had a lot of gold and silver but he never helped the poor. One day, a traveller came to his house and asked for food and shelter.

The merchant refused to help him. The traveller cursed the merchant and said, 'May your wealth turn to dust.'

The next day, the merchant's gold turned to dust. He realised his mistake and became generous. He started helping the poor and his wealth returned.

Moral: Greed leads to destruction.

Story 3: The Honest Woodcutter

Once, there was a poor woodcutter who lived with his family. One day, while cutting wood near a river, his axe fell into the water. He started crying because he could not afford a new axe.

Suddenly, a fairy appeared and asked him what happened. He told her the truth. The fairy brought out a golden axe and asked if it was his. He said no. Then she brought a silver axe and he said no again. Finally, she brought his iron axe and he was overjoyed.

The fairy was pleased with his honesty and gave him all three axes as a reward.

Moral: Honesty is the best policy.

studysapiens.com

Story 4: A Thirsty Crow

Once, there was a thirsty crow. It was a very hot day and the crow was looking for water. After flying for a long time, it found a pot with some water in it.

The crow tried to drink the water but its beak could not reach the water. It thought of a plan. It picked up small stones and dropped them into the pot one by one. The water level rose and the crow drank the water happily.

The crow was satisfied and flew away.

Moral: Where there is a will, there is a way.

Story 5: The Clever Rabbit

Once, there was a clever rabbit who lived in a forest. One day, a hungry fox saw the rabbit and chased it. The rabbit ran fast and hid in a hole.

The fox waited outside the hole for a long time. The rabbit thought of a plan. It started singing loudly from inside the hole. The fox was surprised and went away thinking the rabbit was not afraid.

The rabbit escaped safely and learned that wit is better than strength.

Moral: Wit is better than strength.

Story 6: The Kind Farmer

There was a kind farmer who lived in a village. He had a large farm and many animals. One day, a hungry traveller came to his house. The farmer gave him food and shelter for the night.

The traveller was very grateful. The next day, he told the farmer that he was a king in disguise. He rewarded the farmer with gold and silver.

The farmer was happy but he said, 'I helped you because it was my duty, not for reward.' The king was impressed by his kindness.

Moral: Kindness is always rewarded.

Story 7: The Lazy Boy

Once, there was a lazy boy who did not like to work. He always asked his mother to do everything for him. One day, his mother became ill and could not work.

The boy had to do the household work himself. He realised how difficult it was to do everything alone. He started helping his mother regularly.

The boy became hardworking and his mother was proud of him.

Moral: Laziness leads to suffering.

Story 8: The Wise Judge

Once, there was a wise judge who was known for his fairness. One day, two farmers came to him with a dispute. Both claimed that a piece of land belonged to them.

The judge listened to both sides carefully. He asked them to bring witnesses. After hearing the witnesses, he decided in favour of the farmer who was telling the truth.

The other farmer accepted the decision and apologised for lying. The judge was praised for his wisdom.

Moral: Truth always prevails.

Story 9: The Brave Boy

There was a brave boy who lived in a village near a forest. One day, a fire broke out in the forest. The villagers were afraid to go near the fire.

The boy took a bucket and started bringing water from the river. He worked tirelessly to control the fire. The villagers joined him and together they saved the forest.

The boy was praised for his courage and leadership.

Moral: Courage and leadership save the day.

Story 10: The Talking Parrot

Once, there was a talking parrot who lived with a kind old woman. The parrot could speak many languages. One day, a rich merchant visited the old woman and was amazed by the parrot's speech.

The merchant offered a lot of gold for the parrot. The old woman refused because she loved the parrot. The merchant tried to steal the parrot but the parrot flew away.

The old woman was sad but the parrot returned after a few days. They lived happily ever after.

Moral: Love is more precious than wealth.

studysapiens.com